Write a C program for a ledger which maintains the borrow and return history of a particular book (N number available) accessed by M number of students and display the available number of books or number of student is waiting for that book whenever needed.